Good Friday

Dear Granddaughter

Your Grandmother has been wishing she could fly to see you to tell you she has this day found the long lost linen of yours all safe and sound in a box in the room over the washhouse can't imagine how it got there except you and others were playing dressing dolls in long clothes and this got slipped in with other things However we need not trouble as to how it got there one thing we know once it was given up as lost now it is found shall we keep it until you come

Wm. M. M. M.

there is a lot of young people going up to the woods to day gathering primroses &c. if you were here no doubt you would have enjoyed the company of some of them as it is so beautiful and fine.

I have been up to the town land it was very nice to be there when the sun was shining and the birds whistling. - am thankful to say I am improving a little but very slowly the cold weather is so much against me have rather a troublesome cough and am very short of breath so am not able to do much at present hope when we get rid of these cold with easterly wind I shall get stronger your grandma is middling well in health only her eyes fail her so much Aunt Abiel is very well we think the strongest of the three give our love to Phoebe Father Mother and all and kisses for all dont forget Baby from your affectionate

Grandpa & Grandmama
