

RHYL.—This beautiful watering place continues thronged with gay and fashionable visitors. All the lodging houses are occupied. We alluded, in the last 'Herald,' to the fact that races, and other amusements, would be carried on with great spirit during the summer, in this gay town; and we are glad to find that the committee of management have received the patronage and support of the Right Hon. Lord Mostyn, the Hon. E. M. Ll. Mostyn, and several other gentlemen of the neighbourhood.

POINT OF AYR.—The young man, William Jones, who was lost off the flat Victoria, of Rhuddlan, near the Point of Ayr, was not married; but his mother, and three or four brothers and sisters, depended chiefly upon him for support.

RHYL.—On Wednesday last, the brig Theodore, of Sunderland, Cooke, master, arrived off this port at half-past eleven o'clock, A.M., was taken in tow by the Benedi, steamer, and safely got to her moorings. She is laden with timber from Quebec, for Mr. William Hughes, merchant, of Rhuddlan. On Thursday last, at noon, wind N.W. by N., the brig British Oak, of Sunderland, Humphrey, master, arrived off this port, and got up the channel in style, without the assistance of a steamer, piloted by Capt. Roberts, of the Voryd Packet Hotel. She is laden with timber (red and white pine) from Quebec, for the spirited and enterprising merchant, Mr. Roberts, of the Abbey, Rhuddlan.

RECUANUSAN.—On Tuesday, the Comer Tent, of the
